Link to files: How do I fix this? I am getting a similar error when trying to move it. I want to get it to the precise directory with the name "nest.". I know there are videos about this but I think I want to do something different. I want to figure this out. I'm wondering if anyone can explain or show me how to fix this. I want to get it to the precise directory with the name "nest.". I don't want to use an.exe from some website. I want to learn how to do it. I know windows sucks but I just want to do it. I do know how to use text editors. I just don't know what to type. I want to figure out how to do it. I want to know if anyone can help. I just want to learn how to do it. I don't know if there's any hope but. I would appreciate any help that you guys could give me.

A: It's because you're already trying to extract the archive via an archive manager, which means it can only do one thing: extract. You should be using the command line tool 7-Zip. Get 7-Zip: Run the command with you archive's name and the -xf command-line option: Win7-Zip-x86-64-Community-2019.6.0.zip -xf -i A: I have used Winrar in the past to decompress files, it is available on Windows 7 and Windows XP. It's a good tool, but it has issues with being limited in what it can do and doesn't support some of the newer formats (including zip). I recommend using 7-Zip to decompress the files instead. Here's how to use it for the.zip extension: 7-Zip is an archiving and file compression/decompression utility, similar to Windows' Zip and 7-zip. The following commands are for use from the command prompt or command line. For more information about how to use it, type 7-zip /? in the command prompt.

Usage Usage: 7z x archive [compression_level] [password]

Compression level: Type the compression level between 0 (Fast)
